Pugilists to Give Boxing Exhibition For Sweet Charity.

SPORTSMEN REMEMBER HIM.

Deceased Athlete Holds Warm Place In the Hearts of All Who Were Acquainted With Him.

"Billy" Madden who is here with Gus Ruhlin, says that just after the big fight in San Francisco, a little over a week ago, a movement was ctarted by Tim McGraw, Harry Corbett and himself to take up a subscription among sporting men all over the country for the purpose of erecting a monument over the grave of the late Jack Dempsey, probably the greatest middle weight fighter the world ever saw. Shortly after Dempsey was laid to rest in Portland, his wife died leaving their two little girls alone in the world. It is the intention of those who are behind the project to see that the children are educated and properly cared for. Madden says the matter came about in this way: A night or two after the championship battle, Harry Corbett, who was a personal friend of Dempsey's, received a basket of flowers and a card bearing the inscription that and a card bearing the inscription that the flowers were in memory of Demp-sey. When he learned of it, he sug-gested that a subscription be taken up for, the purpose already explained. Corbett and McGraw were heartily in favor of the scheme and Corbett was chosen to receive subscriptions. It was agreed that no one would be allowed to subscribe more than $5 and Madden denated the first five dollars. Corbett and McGraw then each subscribed that amount and shortly after the news was spread among the sporting fraternity. Corbett had quite a neat little sum in his possession.

It was decided that at the end of each week the names of the subscribers would be published in some of the leading papers of the West.

Madden says that it is his intention to give exhibitions throughout the East for the benefit of the monument fund. Dempsey, though a middleweight fighter, took on anybody who cared to meet him. He posted a forfeit of $1,000 that John L. Sullivan could not put him out in ten rounds. Madden says that after his best fighting days were over he met Fitzsimmons and it took the latter thir-teen rounds to beat him.

Among the heavweights he met and defeated were Pete McCoy, McCaffery, Dave Campbell, George La Blanche

Dave Campbell, George La Blanche and Jack Burke,
In speaking of the boxing exhibition billed for tonight between Ruhlin and Burns, Madden said that Burns was enough for Ruhlin in one night and that Gus would not go on with Chilett.

RUHLIN-BURNS TONIGHT. Akren Giant Will Box Six Rounds With Local Heavyweight.

Gus Ruhlin, the "Akron Giant," will be seen in the ring here for the first time this evening, when he will go six rounds with Jimmy Burns at the Salt Lake athletic club rooms.

There are to be two preliminaries of four rounds each. Phil Green, the popular youngster from Butte, and "Kid" Meyers will go first, and Roy Condie will box with Jim Francis.

Madden and Ruhlin expect to leave here tomorrew for the East. They will stop at Denver, and in Kansas City may get a match with Tommy Ryan. From there they will go on to Chicago and New York.

Ruhlin intends to rest a few weeks and then take on any of the heavy-weights to care to meet him.

PLAYED A TIE GAME.

Collegiate Institute Team Surprises the High School Eleven.

A fairly good sized crowd of High school and Collegiate Institute stu-dents wended their way down to Walker's gridiron Saturday afternoon to witness the game between the teams representing the two institutions. What the crowd lacked in point of numbers was more than made up for by anthusteen by enthusiasm.

by enthusiasm.

The High school contingent was handed out a big surprise by the pluck, endurance and speed displayed by the Collegiates. Not only did they hold the High school and prevent them from scoring but they played a decidedly aggressive gams from the sound of the whistle until the time keepers yelled "time!"

"time!"
The outlook for the Collegiates looked very slim and discouraging during the first five minutes of play. The High school got the ball in the kick off and the way they went through the enemy's line caused many to lose heart and predict an overwhelming defeat for the Collegiates. In five rushes the High school aggregation had the pig skin within easy striking distance of the other sides goal, but the Collegiates made a determined stand and the ball went over. Making but little headway on two trys, the Collegiates punted to their twesty-yard line and then held the High school on three downs. The ball went over and Sexton made a hair raising sprint around right end for a gain of tventy yards.

The teams settled down to hard fight-The teams settled down to hard fighting and it was a battle royal from then on. First the Collegiates and then the High school was held for downs. The ball was rushed forward several yards and just as the situation was shaping for a touchdown a fumble or a misplay would throw it back again. The High school hid no less than three splendid opportunities for scoring but fumbles spoiled the chances.

Lower Courts Are Affirmed in Two Suits-Important Mining Case.

Blyth & Fargo Co. vs Julian C. Houtz. H. M. Forncrook, Geo. M. Miles And C. Rathburn, Appellants.

The supreme court has handed down two important opinions.

In the case of the Blyth & Fargo company vs Julian C, Houtz, R. M. Forncrook, George M. Hiles and Charles Rathbun, appellants, the court affirms the decision of the lower court. The opinion is written by Chief Justice Min-

In substance the case is as follows: In substance the case is as follows:

In December, 1897, H. C. Shurtliff, Jr., being indebted to the Blyth & Fargo company in the sum of $10,000, gave as security a chattel mortgage on their sheep-shearing plant near Hillcard, Wyo., and other property. The Shurtliffs were to have the right to use the plant, or sell any part of it provided the proceeds were applied on their debt, and provided that they had the written consent of the Blyth & Fargo company to the sale. The mortgage was ten consent of the Blyth & Fargo com-pany to the sale. The mortgagee was to be entitled to take possession of the plant in case of default. In December, 1899, the defendants negotiated with Shurtliff and the plaintiff company for the purchase of the sheep-shearing plant. The defendants were to give their notes to Blyth & Fargo for $2,000, the agreed value of the plant, and this amount was to be credited to Shurtliff, and the company was to release the mortgage. This was done. On maturity of the note Blyth & Fargo brought suit. The defendants interposed that the note was given to the Blyth & Fargo company in payment of the plant, which was sold on the express warranty that it consisted of fifty Woolsey sheep-shearing machines, with all necessary attachments, and two engines and boilers, all in good running order, whereas only thirty-eight machines were furnished and they were out of order and without appliances to run them; and the engines and boilers were out of repair. The court directed a verdict for the plaintiff

the plaintiff. The Supreme court finds that in giving permission to sell the respondent merely waved its right to object to a sale and its lien upon the property in consideration of such payment being made to it, Shurtliff, as owner, had a license to seil the property when this waiver was made. He was then dealing with his own property and was not the agent of the mortgagee, and as a consequence the respondent company is not responsible for any warrenty or misrepresentation made by Shurtliff. If any one was liable it was the party making the warranties. The right of the respondent company to cancel the credit to Shurtliff and take timely proceedings against him to indemnify itself, had it been liable on the warranty, was a valuable right which was lost by the appellants' silence and de-

The Supreme court also affirms the ruling of the lower court in the case of the Murray Hill Mining & Milling company vs William Havenor and Albert Hensted, appellants. The opinion is written by Justice Baskin. The appel-lants in this case applied to the United States land office at Salt Lake City for a patent of the Havenor mining claim, and the respondent having filed a protest and adverse claim this suit was in-stituted by it. The Havenor embraced a portion of the Murray Hill, Sego Lily, and Silver Deck claims of the respon-dent. The lower court awarded the decree to the respondent.

The appellants contended that the re-ing claim was real estate and could not be transferred by parol, or othernot be transferred by parol, or other-wise than in accordance with the stat-ute of frauds. There was no evidence that it ever acquired any title to any of the claims in controversy or any statute of frauds, holds the appellate court, it is well settled than an estate in land may be transferred from one person to another by a verbal sale ac-companied by possession.

THE OLD WAY

Of Treating Stomach Trouble an Indigestion, a Barbarous and

We say the old way but really it is the common and usual one at the present time and many dyspeptics, and physicians as well, consider the first step in attempting to cure indigestion is to diet, either by selecting certain food and rejecting others or to treatly food and rejecting others or to greatly diminish the quantity of food usually

In other words the starvation plan, is by many, supposed to be the first es-sential in the cure of weak digestion. The almost certain failure of starvation cure for stomach trouble has been proven time and again but still the usual advice, when dyspepsia makes its appearance, is a course of

All this is radically wrong. It is fool All this is radically wrong. It is foolish and unscientific to recommend dieting or starvation to a person suffering from dyspepsia because indigestion itself starves every organ and every nerve and fibre in the body.

What is needed is abundant nutrition, not less, and this means pienty of good, wholesome, well-cooked food and some natural digestive to assist the weak stomach to digest it.

This is exactly the purpose for which Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are adapted and this is the way they cure the worst cases of stomach trouble. The patient eats plenty of wholesome food, and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tableis digests it for him.

And this is in accordance with nature and common sense because in this way the whole system is nourished and the overworked stomach rested, because the tablets will digest the food, whether the stomach works or not.
